BERBER DESCRIPTION DESIGNERS WEIGHTS Initially inspired by an untitled typeface from an old hand-lettering book, Berber has been developed over two Niels Oeltjen (2003) Berber KingCaps incarnations to function as a strong, confident sans. In 2003 Berber was used as a display face for Eye (46). Lan Huang (2011) Berber Text The revisions to Berber in 2011 enabled longer settings as well as its more conventional use on larger and graphic applications such as signage. The typeface nows features both king caps and small caps. Extensive additions to the numerals sets and complete opentype sets of international diacritics also extend its usage.
